

Biographical notes

Mr. Emmanuel Mbebeb Fomba holds a Masters degree in Industrial/Organisational Psychology from the University of Lagos in Nigeria, after completing graduate studies in the University of Yaoundé, Cameroon. He is currently a Lecturer of Psychology at the University of Dschang, Cameroon, a visiting Lecturer to some Higher and Professional Institutions and consultant to some Organizations. Before joining the academics, he has been very active in development circles, exploring the extended role of psychology within the framework of participatory tools. He is striving for an inclusive science that is socially constructed on the indigenous knowledge system of the people. His current research interests are on transition from school to work under uncertainty, entrepreneurship priming, informal sector development, innovations in indigenous knowledge, risk perception, human resources development, Small and Medium Size Enterprises and family enterprises.