

Profile of Oludare OGUNLANA

Oludare OGUNLANA is Secretary-General of the All-Africa Students Union, a long time student activist from Nigeria with strong commitment to rights of students and human rights. Oludare is the convener of annual “State of the African Union” symposium and the initiator of Kwame Nkrumah Leadership Award.

Currently, he is a member of the UNESCO panel of senior experts on HIV/AIDS and sits on the follow up committee of the UNESCO World Conference on Higher Education. As a member of the United Nations International Youth Experts group in New York, he has chaired many international meetings across the globe. On many occasions, he has led African youth delegations to International fora. He has worked in close contacts with afro-descendants students groups in Europe and US on anti-discrimination issues. He attended 2002 World Summit on Sustainable Development held in Johannesburg, South Africa and been active in its follow up